

RAYMOND YEH

MArch, FAIA

Professor Emeritus
email: yeh@hawaii.edu

Before coming to UH in 1992, Ray Yeh was Dean of Architecture at the University of Oklahoma and Head of Architecture at Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo. As Dean at the University of Hawai'i School of Architecture (1992-2007), he led the School in establishing the first in the nation professionally accredited architecture doctorate program with an Asia Pacific focus. His teaching and research interests are on Design Futures for the Architects. Listed among the Design Futures Council's Most Admired Educators, Yeh maintains an architectural practice and is a member of the College of Fellows of the American Institute of Architects.

Teaching Areas_ architecture/urban design professional practice